Mills Design Ltd. is a performance yacht design firm headed by Mark Mills. Originally from California, Mills raced sailboats at the top level including Admirals Cup and Commodores Cups among others, before returning to University in the UK for his Naval Architecture qualification. Since opening the firm in 1995 we have enjoyed continuing success particularly under the IRC rule where our boats both custom and production have proved to be winners worldwide.

Mills was appointed to the Royal Ocean Racing Clubs Technical Committee in 1999, joined the US-IRC Technical Committee upon its formation in 2006, and is a member of the NYYC HPR Rule Working Party reflecting his ongoing deep involvement in Rating and Handicapping issues. Named 2009 Irish Sailor of the Year Mills' belief in simple discrete solutions offers the key to both style but more importantly competitive success in a complex field and has helped its boats win trophies from the smallest daysailers to Maxi events.

Increasingly working on larger performance projects both for racing and cruising Mills Design Ltd. has a worldwide range of partners and contacts allowing it to provide the perfect team for any project. These include composite engineers, high tech builders, Fluid Dynamics (CFD) specialists, project managers, spar manufacturers, deck gear suppliers, interior designers, and systems experts to offer the finest team possible.

Mills Design welcomes any enquiries about new or existing designs, please contact us and let us see how we can help to create something special.
